SEWING CIRCLE BIDS MISS SCHUSTER FAREWELL

The Sewing Circle of Livingston Street Lutheran Church met on Monday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock at the home of Mrs. L. Heppner on Crane street to bid farewell to one of its members. Miss Mary Schuster who has made her home for a number of years with her now deceased sister, Mrs. C. Schleede, will leave shortly for Ft. Wayne to make her future home there. A few pleasant hours were spent and a light lunch was served. The ladies presented Miss Schuster with a token by which to remember her association with them in Kingston. After a few words of farewell by the pastor the members departed wishing Miss Schuster a safe journey and health and all good things in her new home.

Adjourned Court.

Justice G. D. B. Hasbrouck Tuesday adjourned the January term of the supreme court at Albany when it was found none of the cases on the day calendar were ready for trial. The term began January 9, and 133 cases were removed from the calendar by trial or settlement.

P.-T. A. School No. 1.

The Parent-Teachers Association of School No. 1, will meet at the school on Thursday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

OVER 5,000 MOTOR LICENSE PLATES ISSUED

There was a let up today of applicants for motor license plates at the Ulster county clerk's office, probably because many auto owners have their cars laid up for the winter, and a majority of motorcycle owners are not using them during the season of bad wheeling. Up to Tuesday evening, January 31, about 5,300 license plates of all kinds have been issued at the county clerk's office since December 15, 1921, leaving about 4,300 plates on hand that were sent from Albany as the estimated required number for Ulster county. These include plates for pleasure automobiles, commercial cars, omnibus, motorcycles and tractors.

For Veterinary Service Here.

A certificate of incorporation of Farmers' Veterinary Service, Inc., has been filed with the secretary of state and with the Ulster county clerk. The purpose of the corporation is to manufacture, import, purchase, sell, deal in drugs, medicical supplies, and ect. for treating diseases of domestic farm animals as well as human beings. The principal office of business is to be in the City of Kingston. The capital stock is $10,000. George P. Hutchins, Mabel N. Hutchins of New York city, and Reuben E. Smith of Catskill, are the directors and stockholders.

ARTHUR J. BURNS NEW C. OF C. HEAD

Elected at Annual Meeting After Being Chosen One of Three New Directors—Reports of President and Secretary.

Frank R. Powley, 126 votes; Arthur J. Burns, 122 votes, and John H. Gregory, 94 votes, are the new directors of the Chamber of Commerce, elected by votes of the membership and canvassed preceeding the annual meeting on Tuesday evening. They succeed Palmer Canfield, Jr., W. C. Kingman and W. J. Turck, whose terms have expired. Three others were not far behind in the voting, Roy Sutliff receiving 91 votes, M. H. Herzog, 88; and William J. Dugan, 86.

Arthur J. Burns was elected president; Samuel M. Watts, first vice president; Charles Ramsey, second vice president, and C. S. Treadwell, treasurer, when the new board of directors organized. A committee to take up the matter of selecting a successor to Secretary Hudson, whose resignation goes into effect March 1, was appointed.

Judge Fowler's Report.

The report of Judge Joseph M. Fowler, the retiring president, was as follows:

President Fowler's annual report was as follows:

As president of the Chamber for the year 1921, I beg to submit the following brief report of the activities of our organization for the past year.

The general membership of the Chamber has shown a gratifying willingness to aid in the various endeavors of the association, the Service Committee have done the work alloted to them with a willingness and promptness which can come only from a whole-hearted and unselfish interest.

Personally, I feel most grateful for the support I have received from the directors and members in the work of my office.

The resignation of Mr. Hudson, recently announced, presents a serious problem. He has served as secretary for three years in an exceptionally, efficient and capable manner, he has merited the confidence and esteem had for him by citizens of Kingston, both members of the Chamber and non-members. Much of the success of the Chamber during this period can be found in his ability, his energy and his good judgment. The filling of his place is one of the important matters for the consideration of the new board.

Industrial—In view of the general business retardation during the year 1921, we ought not to be disappointed in not having added this year to our city industries any new going concern; but as the year 1922 promises a markedly better general business condition, so with us there are pending negotiations and plans which we expect will shortly add materially to the industrial side of our city.

Acting through or in conjunction with the Boy's Welfare Council an industrial educational survey is being made by the State department and a report is daily expected; from this report and its recommendation we may expect during the next year active steps toward the development of the industrial resource of the community by the proper education and training of the young people who have industrial pursuits in view.

Housing.—The Chamber inaugurated and put over a successful Building and Loan Association campaign. This greatly strenghtened our two Savings and Loans Associations and this added strength is reflected to a considerable extent in the upwards of sixty building permits issued or applied for and in addition has made possible additions and improvements to existing properties.

County Activities.—The Chamber has come into close and cordial cooperation with the Farm Bureau of the county; it is credited with having made possible its succesful city membership campaign and with material aid in connection with its picnic. The public market idea fostered and encouraged by the chamber has amply justified the faith it had in it. The bus terminals have been continued with the active cooperation and aid of the chamber.

The value of these county activities cannot be as accurately measured as the pay roll of an industrial enterprise but they are of similar value to the community.

Rondout Creek Bridge Celebration.—With the aid and cooperation of other bodies and organizations the opening of this long hoped for highway link was fittingly celebrated. The celebration was not only a pleasurable occasion but it served to advertise Kingston most advantageously.

Allied Organizations.—We have maintained our membership and active participation in the affairs of the Hudson Valley Federated Chamber of Commerce, one meeting of which was held here during the year. The outstanding work of this federation during the year was its efforts for improved waterways in which the Kingston Chamber took a conspicuous part.

We have worked with and through the Catskill-Shawangunk Association in its efforts to develop this region as a summer resort. In this connection our city neighborhood map has been found to be of marked value to the users and a profitable advertisement for the city.

The Retail Association has been active and has fostered a spirit of community cooperation among the retail merchants productive of much good.

The foregoing are a few of the Chamber's activities and participa-

TALE OF A CITY WELCOME ARCH

Last Summer Board of Public Works Started Erection of One on Albany Avenue at Announced Cost of $500—How Cost Sprouted Overnight to $5,000.

On Albany avenue at the city line there is a partly completed "Welcome Arch." Last summer the board of public works announced that it would erect the arch on that avenue at an estimated cost of about $500. It was stated at the time that the brick and other material to be used in the construction had been contributed by various firms and individuals of the city. The $500 item would be the labor cost.

About two weeks ago the board of public works held a special meeting at which time it was decided to suspend work on the arch until a later date.

Behind those two items is an interesting story. From what could be learned, it is understood that some one member of the board reached the decision, after mature deliberation, that the arch would be vastly improved in beauty if bluestone was used in the construction.

A little later an order for $3,000 worth of bluestone was placed with a Poughkeepsie concern, and it is understood that $1,500 worth of stone has been delivered on the order, and the balance will be shipped later.

Who ordered the bluestone seems to be a mystery. It is said that there is no record on the minutes of the board of public works of last year covering the purchase, and that there appears to be no authorization for the placing of the order for the stone.

It has also developed that the original estimate of the cost of the arch, of $500, will be exceeded by over $4,000, and that the arch, if built as at present planned, will cost the city about $5,000.

This is said to be one of the reasons why a halt has been called in the construction of the arch.

Another reason is said to be the fact that some protests have been made from automobilists who claim that the completed arch will form an obstruction in the road, and that the driver of a car entering or leaving the city will not be able to see another car approaching, and that as a result there are liable to be collisions at that point for which the city would be liable. The arch as planned gives a twenty-three foot clearance in the roadway.

As the matter now stands, work on the arch is at a standstill and nothing will be done until spring, at which time it is likely that the question will come up before the board of public works and a decision reached to either complete the arch or tear it down.

If the arch is torn down the question of what disposition will be made of the bluestone also will come up for decision.

SEIZED WET GOODS DESTROYED

By order of County Judge Joseph M. Fowler fifteen half barrels full of alleged "home brew" beer, seized by Chief Wood at the places of business of Casper Michels on Delaware avenue, and of W. Woerner on Murray street several months ago, were destroyed Tuesday afternoon under direction of Sheriff Kolts with Seth Jocelyn as master of ceremonies, assisted by Jailer Bob Every and some of the jail trusties. Three barrels contained alleged sour grape wine, part of 27 barrels seized by state troopers, while being conveyed on a truck to Newburgh from Morano's vineyard at Marlborough on August, 1921, were also destroyed. The half barrels and barrels were knocked to pieces and the wood will be dried and burned. The contents were poured out back of the court house and allowed to run away.

The goods destroyed had been stored in the cellar of the court house, the "home brew" under the county judge's chambers and for some time a stench has pervaded the court house so sour and pungent that it was "strong enough to Fill an ox." The "home brew beer" for some time before being carted to the court had been stored in a room at police headquarters but the liquid soon after began working and trickled out between the staves of the containers and ran over the floor. Because of the stench that followed Chief Wood adopted the motto "Safety First" and obtained permission from the court to move the "stuff" to the court house. As there is a limit to all things the stench of the "home brew" finally reached its limit Tuesday so Judge Fowler in order to rid the court room, the sheriff's and the district attorney's offices, and his own court chambers as well of the gaseous fumes percolating about ordered the seized Volstedian beverage destroyed. The stench from the sour "home brew" still lingered about Wall, John and Crown streets, in the vicinity of the court house this morning.

SUMMARY OF NAVAL TREATY

Defines Fighting Ship Status for 15 Years and Names Warships Amounting to Hundreds of Tons to be Destroyed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Continental Hall, Washington, Feb. 1.—After almost 3 months of continuous negotiating, the five great naval powers of the world met in open conference here today and formally presented to the world the terms of a treaty which definitely prescribed the limits and charts and the courses of their navies for the next 15 years.

The final text of the document held few surprises—it lasts for 15 years, it provides for the United States calling another session at the end of 8 years, to consider possible changes because of scientific or technical developments in that time, it follows the 5-5-3-1.75-1.75 ratio for the five powers, it names the capital ships each power may retain, it provides methods and times of replacements, it writes the first accepted world dictionary of naval terms, it affords an avenue of escape should any of the powers become embroiled in war, and lastly, its provisions make certain the scrapping of hundreds of thousands of tons of existing fighting craft.

In addition to the purely naval aspect of the lengthy document, there is a three-cornered agreement in it among the United States, Great Britain and Japan which provides for the maintenance of the status quo as regards fortifications in the Pacific possessions of three powers within prescribed areas.

The treaty is so written that any one of the contracting powers may at any time, when it considers its national security is menaced, call a new conference to reconsider the portions of the treaty which it considers inimical to its safety and general well-being.

Fifteen years is the life of the treaty from the date of its ratification by the constitutional agencies of the powers (in the case of the United States, it is the senate), and at the end of this period, the treaty will automatically continue in force until one of the powers gives two years' notice of a desire to terminate it.

In case of war, any of the signatory powers can escape the obligations of the treaty by giving due notice to the other powers, and at the end of hostilities, the powers will meet again to consider what shall be done about renewing its force.

A summary of the treaty follows:

Draft Treaty.

"The United States of America, the British Empire, France, Italy and Japan:

"Desiring to contribute to the maintenance of the general peace, and to reduce the burdens of competition in armament;

"Have resolved, with a view to accomplishing these purposes, to conclude a treaty to limit their respective naval armament, and to that end have appointed as their plenipotentiaries;

(Here follow the names of the delegates), "who having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found to be in good and due form, have agreed as follows:

CHAPTER I.

General Provisions Relating to the Limitation of Naval Armament.

Article I.

"The contracting powers agree to limit their respective naval armaments as provided in the present treaty.

Article II.

This article states that the powers may retain the capital ships named further on, and that in addition, the United States may complete and retain two ships of the West Virginia class, disposing of the North Dakota and the Delaware; and that Great Britain may complete two new capital ships of 35,600 tons, upon the completion of which she will scrap the Thunderer, King George V, Ajax and Centurion.

Article III.

"Subject to the provisions of Article II, the contracting powers shall abandon their respective capital ship building program, and no new capital ships shall be constructed or acquired by any of the contracting powers, except replacement tonnage.

Article IV.

"The total capital ship replacement tonnage of each of the contracting powers shall not exceed in standard displacement, for the United States, 525,000 tons; for the British Empire 525,000 tons; for France, 175,000 tons; for Italy, 175,000 tons; for Japan 315,000 tons.

Article V.

"No capital ship exceeding 35,000 tons standard displacement shall be acquired by, or constructed by, for or within the jurisdiction of any of the contracting powers.

Article VI.

"No capital ship of the contracting powers shall carry a gun with a calibre in excess of 16 inches (406 mm).

Article VII.

"The total tonnage of aircraft carriers for each of the contracting powers shall not exceed in standard displacement, for the United States, 135,000 tons; for the British Empire, 135,000 tons; for France, 60,000 tons; for Italy, 60,000 tons; for Japan, 81,000 tons."

Five-Power Naval Treaty Read at Conference; Shantung Settled

"Greatest Forward Step in History Toward Peace," Hughes Calls Naval Pact—China Regains Control of Shantung and Wei-Hei-Wei will be Returned, Making Her Free from Foreign Domination.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Continental Hall, Washington, Feb. 1.—"This treaty ends—it absolutely ends the race in competitive naval armaments," declared Secretary of State Hughes this afternoon when he had finished presenting to the armament conference in open session, the terms of the five-power naval treaty, which sharply define the size of the world's navies for the next 15 years.

"I repeat," says Mr. Hughes, with emphasis, "it absolutely ends naval competition.

"In this treaty we are taking the greatest forward step in history toward the reign of peace."

Within an hour after the armament conference met in the first open session today, there was also written into the conference records, a succession of Chinese achievements, all aimed at restoring to the great republic of the Orient part of that which nations in the past have taken from her.

They were as follows:

1—Announcement was made of the complete settlement of the Shantung controversy under which China regains well nigh complete control of the Province.

2—Great Britain announced that she would return Wei-Hei-Wei to China, in keeping with the general spirit of returning to China what belongs to her.

3—Various resolutions previously adopted in committee, designed to restore Chinese autonomy, were officially adopted by the entire conference.

Gas Company Mails Checks In Payment of Local Loans

About $18,000 of Outstanding Money Advanced for Extensions in Service During War Periods Refunded as Promised in Prospectus of Bond Sale.

In accordance with its promise to the public, the Kingston Gas & Electric Company is using the first of the proceeds from the sale of its bonds to refund to consumers the amounts which they advanced during the World War period for extensions to service, and checks in payment of such amounts will be mailed tonight to the consumers who made such advances.

The total amount advanced by consumers for extension work was in the neighborhood of $18,000. Consumers who made such advances were to receive interest on the amount advanced with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, and all interest has been repaid except one month's interest, from January 1, 1922, to February 1, which interest will be included in the checks to be sent out tonight.

More than sixty per cent of the bonds authorized by the Public Service Commission have been sold and the company refunds the advances of consumers out of the first money available for that purpose.

Some of the consumers who made advances preferred to take payment of their advances in service from the company, but to all others the checks to be mailed tonight will cover the amount due.

PAPAL CONCLAVE STARTS TOMORROW

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, Feb. 1.—Final preparations were made today for the conclave of cardinals which will open in the Vatican tomorrow to elect a successor to the late Pope Benedict XV.

The Italian parliament will convene tomorrow also and it is expected Premier Bonomi will be interpellated before the day is over on the attitude of the Italian government toward reconciliation with the Vatican.

A solemn requiem high Mass was celebrated this morning with the cardinals participating. This was the final of three such Masses ordered celebrated prior to the convening of the conclave.

Church politics are running high and it is impossible to predict with any degree of accuracy who will be elected.

The nine days' rites are now at an end.

The Vatican is investigating the source of a mysterious 120 page booklet of the most expensive and most beautiful binding bitterly attacking Cardinal Gasparri for his stand in favor of reconciliation between the Vatican and Quirinal. The tirade is signed "The Old Swiss Guard."

Rondout Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Louis Beeres and Mrs. I. W. Scott will have the direction of the supper committee at the Rondout Presbyterian Church Thursday evening. Supper will be served promptly at 6:15. For many years the property was conducted as a hotel and then for a number of years as a rooming house. At present it is occupied by several families. The new owners have stated they could not make their plans public until May first.

HUGE SUMS TO DISABLED SOLDIERS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 1.—The United States is spending $1,000,000 in cash every day in payments to disabled ex-service men and their dependents, Col. Charles R. Forbes, director of the Veterans' Bureau, declared today in an address before a convention of 200 veterans.

The government will spend $510,000,000 for soldiers' relief during 1922, Forbes said, pointing out that this sum was greater than the entire expenditure of the government for any year prior to 1897.

LOCALS OUTCLASS UTICA QUINTET

In First Game of Half Season Race; Harvey Plays a Spectacular Game; Borgeman Makes Sixteen Points.

Morgenweck's clan started the second half race, Tuesday evening at the Armory by defeating the Utica team by a tally of 44 to 17. Seven local players were in the game during the evening and each had one field goal or more to his credit. Twenty was the amount caged from the floor by Kingston. Four fouls were also chalked up for the local combination.

The Utes made five goals and seven fouls throughout the struggle. Sturgis was the big point getter for the up staters, shooting two fields and a foul. Schmeelk and Leary followed with four points each.

From the outset the local quintet outclassed the Utica team and at no time during the contest were they in danger. The first half ended with Kingston sporting a thirteen point lead. Score 20 to 7.

Borgeman made sixteen points throughout the contest and Clinton was next with eight. Nick Harvey displayed some wonderful floor work and passing. Lehr also made a good showing tapping the ball at almost every toss up. Artus played his usual good game. M. Husta and C. Husta replaced Borgeman and Clinton during the last ten minutes of play and each scored a field goal. The all around team work of the local combination proved too fast for the up-staters and it looks as if they will be in the running for the pennant.

Davey was the referee and his decisions met with the approval of the twelve hundred fans witnessing the game. The usual good dancing followed the game, music supplied by Balfe's Orchestra.

The score:

MUCH EXCITEMENT IN SKI JUMPING

There is perhaps more excitement to the square inch in ski jumping than in any other winter sport. The skiing season is now in full swing in the Northland and every year more and more Americans are taking up the thrilling Norwegian sport. Ski tournaments are of frequent occurrence and some tremendous jumps have been recorded. The jumper shown in the photo is taking off for a leap of 70 feet.

NOT AFRAID OF ANTELOPE

Years ago Lou Barbour, now traveling secretary of the White Sox, was with the Lincoln club of the Western league. When the season started the Lincoln players came out dolled up in bright new uniforms with the head of an antelope—the nickname of the club—sewed on their chests.

Barbour approached Owner Jones. "Don't you think we'd better have those things ripped off?" he asked.

"Why?" said Jones, amazed. "I thought they looked swell."

"They do; but who's afraid of an antelope?"

prove it, and he is seldom out of the game, for he has made himself so expert in touching the bag that he avoids accidents that fall to the lot of others.

He has the art of touching first base for a putout down so fine that he simply clicks the sack with his heel or toe the same fraction of a second the ball hits his glove and is then off about his business. Watch him next summer!

CLIMB TOILSOME, BECK TELLS BOYS

The fellows who heard the Cameron Beck address at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday night will never forget it. The fellows who did not hear Mr. Beck speak missed the knocking of opportunity at their doors. The Hi-Y Club probably had a record turn-out last night, for 70, or more, were in attendance.

Mr. Beck is a speaker of unusual ability and his dynamic personality makes his every utterance a monument to his Twentieth Century ideas. In opening Mr. Beck declared that in the past year over 10,000 men and boys invaded his office to inquire about the prospects of positions promising promotion and the reward of promotion, better pay. He has visited over 90 suburban high schools near New York in order to inoculate into the students the superior advantages of a broad foundation which a good education lays for success in the life after high school.

During a recent sojourn in a New England hotel he was approached by the principal of the local high school and veritably implored to speak to the student body on the very same topic, as the principal said the school had real problems to face and solve. And so it is in every institution of learning which has as students those between the ages of 16 and 25. Statisticians assert that 66 per cent of the crime committed is produced by the brains of young men between these ages who have struck the wayward path and followed it along to its end-degradation and absolute loss of self respect. The greatest menace to the city of New York is that of the carelessness and recklessness spread about by the fellows between the inclusive ages of 15 to 25

Not along ago Mr. Beck addressed a meeting of 14 bank presidents, 18 vice-presidents of banks and the officials of many large transportation companies which was held at New York to discuss the problem of equipping the unemployed with positions As he looked over the distinguished audience as he arose to address it he noted a small, inconspicuously dressed man whom he identified as George Goethals, the brains, the mastermind, and the great surmounter of all the unprecedented troubles which arose in the construction of the Panama Canal. Roosevelt, true to his natural characteristics, appointed Goethals to this mammoth task not because of partisan views, but because his ability commanded his promotion.

Not the least important hour in a young man's life is the hour of fate when the time comes for the young man to choose between the straight and narrow path to success by work, or the wide and pleasant path to degradation by sloth. A crowd of young boys came to New York with the intent of fulfilling the old maxim to the effect that a young man must sow his wild oats. The start was pleasant, the down grade was easy, and the houses of correction soon harbored them. By the same token a number of young men came to the great city with the sole desire to take at once the correct path to a righteous ascent to success, and the result was that having sown the seeds of integrity and unblemished honor, by a steady application to their daily tasks, a life of success was opened for each one.

One of the amusing things with which Mr. Beck, as personal director of the New York Stock Exchange, has daily to deal with is the advent of many fellows into his office who seek the velvety side of life without making the least attempt to qualify for the executive positions. Recently a lad strolled pettishly into his sanctum with the age-long complaint of general disatisfaction upon his lips. He was at the time employed with the Charles Williams Stores, in a somewhat menial capacity, and his complaint was that of having no chance to rise to the heights of responsibility. When asked by Mr. Beck if he attended a night school his reply was in the negative.

One of the things that most impresses Mr. Beck whenever he beholds the Woolworth building is not its soaring height of 792 feet, but rather its cavernous and deep foundation.

In response to one of the many invitations which Mr. Beck receives, in connection with his work, to dine with many prominent business men he was accorded the honor of dining with the captain of the White Star Line steamer "Olympic," on board the vessel. After the dinner Mr. Beck was shown about the ship, through the maze of labryrinthian passages to the bottom of the hull where the gigantic turbines are housed and introduced to Chief Engineer Thurles. During the war the Olympic had the honor of ramming head-on, full steam ahead and under official orders a German submarine. With evident pride in the vessel's achievements Engineer Thurles showed the exact spot of contact. From the ship's hold Mr. Beck was shown to the captain's bridge which is at a height of 129 feet above sea level. From the stately magnificence of the completed masterpiece Mr. Beck said his thoughts went out to a little English lad, Tommy Andrews, who said that he would build a larger and more beautiful ship than man had yet erected. The result of Andrews's determination is the Olympic.

While en route to Haiti Mr. Beck stopped at Porto Rico and during the course of his rambles about the town wherein he was stopping he was accosted by several Porto Rican lads who spoke fluently an intelligible brand of English. The lads plied him with questions on the United States and by way of leave taking Mr. Beck offered one lad a small "Y" button which he found in the depths of his pockets and left him with the admonition that if he ever needed a friend one could be found wherever the "Y" sign was to be found. Six months from the time when Mr. Beck gave the button to the little Porto Rican lad and forthwith forgot the incident, a ship docked at Pier No. 25, New York city, and discharged as one of its passengers the same swarthy Porto Rican boy. As the boy left the ship he was the possessor of $35.36 but before he left the pier a sneaking pickpocket adopted the $35 and he was left thus, with only 36 cents in his pocket and a small bronze "Y" button in the lapel of his coat. The lad confided in a policeman and was thereupon directed to a branch of the Y. M. C. A. on a nearby avenue. Three years have passed since this lad graced American soil, with a period of service under Uncle Sam's battle-standards, and today by reason of a thorough application to his studies at a night school, and an ardent fulfillment of his allotted tasks during the daytime this same boy holds one of the most responsible and highest-salaried positions in secretarial circles in New York.

Second to none of the fundamental principles which make for a successful future is the untilled spirit which when tilled becomes productive of such indomitable spirits as those of the Commander of Verdun, who said, "They Shall Not Pass," David Livingston, the man who opened up darkest Africa, and Lincoln, the man who toiled exhaustively for four nerve-racking days in order that he might become the possessor of a wormy volume about Washington.

The sunset time of life finds us either enjoying the fruits of a life righteously spent in the service of our fellow men or we are found lavishing upon ourselves the accumulations of our material gains. Of the two the former is the greater, which overshadows the results of our pecuniary accumulations and brings to us untold joys.

Perhaps one of the greatest living objects of unselfish devotion to mankind is the hero of the frozen North, Dr. Grenfell. Dr. Grenfell left London quite early in life to aid the piteously suffering people of Labrador and as a result great things have been wrought by his care for the blind, the deaf and the maimed. In his case wealth and affluence counted for naught, service for everything. A man never falls into a good job; the climb is toilsome.

CARD PARTY FOR STRICKEN VETERANS

A card party will be given Thursday afternoon at Holy Cross parish house, beginning at 2.30 o'clock, by the members of the American Legion Auxiliary. The admission charge of 50 cents will be used to assist in the erection of the Veterans' Mountain Camp at Tupper Lake, in the Adirondacks, a hospital for the care of World War veterans who are afflicted with tuberculosis. A tract of some 1,200 acres will be purchased for this purpose and a drive has been started to raise a part of the purchase price. The members of the Women's Auxiliary of Kingston Post, American Legion, are going to do their share and through the courtesy of the Rev. Gregory Mabry, pastor of the Holy Cross Church, the use of the parish house on Pine Grove avenue has been donated for the card party Thursday afternoon, February 2.

A large attendance is expected as the cause is a worthy one which deserves the support of every veteran and his family as well as all people interested in the fight against tuberculosis.

Bridge and five hundred will be played, beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

Prizes have been donated by Forsyth & Davis, Wonderly & Company, L. B. Van Wagenen Company, Sam Bernstein & Company, Rose-Gorman-Rose, Candyland, Costello & Dugan, E. Winter's Sons, Mrs. Charles McBride, S. Cohen's Sons and Miss Luella Turck.

The New Way to Serve Dried Apricots

Delicious Apricot Jam Easily Made

By Ann Proctor

When I was a child, stewed apricots often appeared on the supper table. Rather tasteless and uninteresting we thought them. But I am now serving my family the most delicious fresh jam made from these same dried apricots, and frankly, I can't keep up with the demand for it. This is the recipe:

½ lb. Dried Apricots
8 level cups (3½ lbs.) Sugar.
1 bottle (scant cup) CERTO.

I wash and drain the apricots, add three cups of water and let them stand over night. In the morning I bring this to a boil and let it simmer for half an hour with cover on the saucepan. Then pour off the juice into a small bowl and crush the apricots thoroughly with a wooden masher; pour these back and mix with the juice.

Measure 4 level cups of this mixture into large saucepan, adding enough water to the fourth cup to make it level full. Add sugar and mix well. Stir mixture hard and constantly and bring to a vigorous boil over the hottest fire. Boil hard for 1 minute with continual stirring. Remove from fire and add CERTO, stirring it in well Skim and pour quickly This makes 11 half-pound glasses

You will find this an economical and acceptable, substitute for fresh fruit for breakfast. Your family will love it at all times. The Certo called for in the recipe is a pure fruit product—no gelatine or preservative in it—that makes jam-making easy and jams better. I hear it praised by everyone who has used it, either in summer or winter, for jams or jelly.

You can get Certo at any grocer's or druggist's And with every bottle comes a Book of Recipes that will tell you how to make many other things just as novel and good as our apricot jam Try some of the new ones right away. For extra free copies of the recipe book write Pectin Sales Co., Inc., Dept. 5, Rochester, N. Y.

If your grocer or druggist does not have Certo, please telephone Miss Jones at 1875 to learn where you can obtain it.—Advertisement.

Secretary Hudson's Report.

The report by Secretary Hudson, was as follows:

Inasmuch as I will relinquish the secretaryship of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce on March 1st in order to accept a business orrportunity, it will perhaps be appropriate to make a report sometime before that date covering the most important problems and the most interesting and important results of permanent value which have been associated with the three and one-half years during which I have been secretary of this chamber of commerce. With this thought in mind, I wish to present at this time only a brief report calling attention to a few of the matters which have been of special interest and importance in our 1921 activities.

I also want to say at this time that more than three years of association with the officers, directors and members of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce and of cooperation with public officials and with officers of other civic organizations have left many pleasant memories which I shall always retain and has created an intense interest and belief in the resources and possibilities of Kingston.

One of the pleasant things connected with my new business association is that it is with a Kingston industry and will enable me to remain a resident of Kingston actively interested in the growth and well-being of our city.

I shall take pleasure in working as a member of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce and putting my shoulder to the wheel to support its officers and directors in making it the great instrument of public cooperation for the advancement of Kingston.

The year 1921 has been a most difficult one for every private enterprise and equally so for every public and semi-public institution and organization

It has not, for the most part, been an appropriate time for the launching of ambitious and extended new projects. It has rather been a time for the conservation and development of such measures of public improvement as were already in hand. It has been a period for the building of solid foundations and for the testing and trying of organizations and policies to the end that they might be ready for the resumption of normal business and civic conditions which we expect in 1922 and the beginning of which we are now experiencing. This has been the key note of the chamber's policy in 1921 and has I believe been applied with decided success.

Catskill-Shawangunk Mountain Ass'n.

Among the activities of this chamber of commerce which have been especially valuable to Kingston is the cooperation which we gave in the establishment two years ago of the Catskill-Shawangunk Mountain Association. This association represents a joining together of the resources of the Catskill-Shawangunk Mountain region in the counties of Ulster, Delaware and Greene for the mutual advancement of all the various communities and interests which are benefited by, and largely dependent upon the prosperity of this great summer resort country.

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce has maintained its interest in the Catskill-Shawangunk Mountain Association throughout 1921, the second year of the association's existence. We have made a substantial appropriation toward the expenses of its work and have given without cost office room and clerical service at our offices

The success of the association in attracting more tourists and guests to this region and in giving very extensive advertising and publicity has been thoroughly demonstrated.

The region has been advertised in the newspapers of New York, Boston, Philadelphia and other eastern cities; in magazines; by the distribution of some 20 to 35,000 Land of Rip Van Winkle folders and in other effective ways. An important by-product of the association's activity has been the strengthening of mutual understanding and good feeling among the various communities cooperating in its work.

Farm Bureau Cooperation.

The chamber of commerce through its agricultural relations committee, C. W. Galloway, chairman, has continued and increased the cooperation between the chamber of commerce and the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau which was definitely organized one year ago. We again cooperated in the farm bureau membership campaign and helped to maintain a most substantial farm bureau membership in Kingston.

Joint Farm and City Picnic.

The joint picnic of the farm and home bureau and the chamber of commerce held in Kingston in August at which Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was the chief speaker, was so thoroughly successful that such joint picnics will undoubtedly become annual affairs.

Public Market.

A public market was instituted and conducted in 1921, brought about by cooperation of the municipal government, chamber of commerce, farm bureau and the Kingston Market Growers Association.

The actual establishment of this market which has been advocated for some years was most gratifying. Its operations produced general satisfaction and it is the belief of all interested that it will have a large development from the small but substantial beginnings of 1921.

Savings & Loan Campaign and Housing.

The subject of more houses has figured largely in the thought and activity of the chamber of commerce for several years

National conditions governing building costs made any direct and immediate solution of the housing problem on a large scale impossible.

The chamber of commerce was, however, able to secure results which will be a lasting and increasing value by putting its services back of the Home-Seeker's Savings & Loan Association and the Kingston Savings & Loan Association in a successful effort to increase their membership and resources

About eight hundred new members were secured in these associations in a cooperative membership campaign. Considerable amount of money has already been loaned on new buildings and a considerable part of the new building during the latter part of 1921 is justly attributed to the building publicity and propaganda which attended this campaign.

Officers of the savings and loan associations believe that this effort was exceedingly valuable not alone in immediate results but in its large influence upon the permanent development of the savings and loan movement in this city. Future cooperative efforts of the associations and the chamber will undoubtedly follow the success of 1921

Bus Terminals and Traffic.

The growing importance of auto bus transportation between Kingston and surrounding towns is obvious. The farsighted action of the chamber of commerce in 1920 in opening and operating three terminal waiting rooms made possible an arrangement in 1921 according to which the cost of maintaining these waiting rooms is shared by the city, the bus owners and the chamber of commerce. The Automotive Dealers Association also showed a fine public spirit by appropriating $100 toward the cost of bus terminals

Kingston Transportation Guide.

The chamber of commerce issued in the summer of 1921 a complete transportation guide containing all rail, steamboat ferry and auto bus schedules. This guide is recognized as a great public convenience and will be re-issued from time to time

Kingston Publicity.

In addition to the publicity which Kingston, along with the entire mountain region receives from the activities of the Catskill-Shawangunk Mountain Association, the publicity committee of the chamber of commerce, Roy M. Sutliff, chairman, planned a series of special folders for advertising Kingston. The first and second folders of this series were issued in 1921. The first folder contains a city map and sets forth special points of interest in the city. The title of the second folder is "In and Out of Kingston," and the contents include an "In and Out Map" of the city, a vicinity map and a statement of nearby points of interest

The New York Central Lines issued in 1921 an industrial directory and shippers guide. Kingston has liberal space in this guide including a cut of a Kingston factory. The material was prepared by the chamber of commerce

Formal Opening Rondout Creek Bridge.

The chamber of commerce took the initiative in securing the formation of a general committee representing the city of Kingston, the Board of Supervisors of Ulster county, the town of Esopus, Chamber of Commerce, the Automobile Club of Ulster County, the Catskill-Shawangunk Mountain Association, the Kingston Rotary Club, the Ulster County Farm Bureau and the Ulster Park Grange

The headquarters of this committee were at the chamber of commerce rooms. The necessary administrative and clerical work was provided by the chamber and the expenses of the celebration were met by appropriations from the city and the chamber without the raising of any special fund by subscriptions.

Governor Miller, State Highway Commissioner Sisson, former Commissioner Greene and other prominent men took part in the ceremonies.

The publicity committee of which Roy M. Sutliff, chairman of the chamber of commerce publicity committee, was chairman, was especially successful in securing news items and cuts in New York city papers and throughout a large part of the United States. The total amount and value of publicity secured to Kingston by this event was undoubtedly by far the greatest in the history of this city.

Industrial Education Survey.

The board of education at the request of the Kingston Boys Welfare Council, which was initiated one year ago by the Chamber of Commerce and Rotary Club and with which the chamber constantly cooperates, invited the state department of education to make an industrial education survey of Kingston.

The chamber of commerce cooperated in making this survey which is now nearly concluded and the results of which will be an important factor in promoting the educational interests of the city and especially of industrial and commercial workers.

Industrial Development.

The chamber of commerce can point with pride to the type of industrial concern which it has been successful in bringing to Kingston. The Kattermann & Mitchell Silk Company; L. Barth & Son, Inc., and the Apollo Magneto Corporation have all proved their ability to go ahead with their development under the adverse conditions of 1921, and their activities here have been of material assistance in maintaining our industrial activities at a point greatly beyond that of most cities during 1921.

With the return toward normal conditions, and especially with industrial prospects now in communication with our industrial committee there is every reason to expect that the chamber of commerce will be able to bring other substantial concerns here in 1922.

Retail Branch.

Our retail branch with its own elected officers and under the able presidency of W. H. Rudderham of the L. B. Van Wagenen Company, has successfully conducted various trade events and promoted retail interests during the past year.

Hudson Valley Federation And New York State Waterways.

This chamber of commerce cooperated in and supported the inspection trip up the Hudson river and through the barge canal which was initiated and carried out by the Hudson Valley Federated Chamber of Commerce, George E. McCoy, president, and which was a very notable achievement in bringing more fully to the attention of congressmen and of shippers the advantages of New York state waterways

John Hiltebrant served as chairman of the Kingston Committee in securing funds toward the expenses of this trip and John Hiltebrant, James F. Dwyer, John D. Schoonmaker, Louis S. Coe, T. J. Comerford and Edward Hungerford represented Kingston on this trip.

Other Matters of Interest.

I will not deal at this time either with the many and varied lines of work of minor importance which the chamber of commerce is constantly attending to or with several matters of very large importance which are now pending but on which at this time definite results have not yet been attained.

President Joseph M. Fowler.

The chamber of commerce has been extremely fortunate in having as its president, Judge Joseph M. Fowler, to whose able leadership the results secured and the added power and influence attained by the chamber in 1921 have been largely due.

Retiring Directors.

Owing to the article in our by-laws which prevents the immediate re-election of a retiring director, the chamber will lose from its board of directors, former Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr., W. C. Kingman and W. J. Turck.

Mayor Canfield has always been faithful and active as a member of our board and his keen initiative has been responsible for many of the most important activities of the chamber of commerce. W. C. Kingman has been a member of the board for the past six years and his faithful service will be greatly missed. W. J. Turck as president of the Kingston Trust Company has contributed a valuable point of view and has been in a position to be of great service.

Notwithstanding our regret at losing these men as directors, the rule providing for the election of new members is undoubtedly a wise one as retiring directors continue to be of service in the chairmanship of important committees while new men acquire experience and bring new points of view to the board.

It is with regret at the near end of my association with the chamber of commerce as its secretary, but with the anticipation of pleasure in continuing my activity as a member that I present this report for the year, 1921.

SYDNEY D. M. HUDSON,
Secretary.

The report of Treasurer C. S. Treadwell will be found in another column.

No "National" in Title.

There is now only one national bank in the United States which does not have "national" as a part of its name. It is the Bank of North America of Philadelphia. A special act of congress is required to permit a national bank to operate as such without indicating the fact that it is a national bank in its name.

Experiment with Air.

A man wished to measure the force that drives the sap upward in trees and shrubs. He cut a vine and tied a bladder over its end. In two hours the bladder was greatly distended, and inside of three hours it burst with a loud report so great was the force that drives sap upward.

Melons.

Melons were first extensively cultivated in France early in the Seventeenth century, but were known to the ancients from the commencement of our era. The Egyptians grew them. They are said to have been carried to America by Columbus and to the Malay archipelago by the Portuguese.

Waterproof Sieve.

Turn up the edges of a piece of fine wire gauze to form a small sieve. Smoke the gauze on both sides in a candle flame. If water is poured in slowly it will not run through, as its weight is not sufficient to break the film on the lower side. For the same reason the sieve can be floated on water, even if loaded with a considerable weight.—Tit-Bits.

Can Send Checks by Wireless.

Through the invention of a Frenchman named Belin it is now possible to transmit documents or checks by wireless. In future, not only will there be no impossibility in regard to the transmission of legal documents, autographs and manuscripts, but the very authenticity of messages will acquire fresh guarantees by their autographed transmission.

Recognition of Goethe.

It is a great mistake to suppose that Goethe, whose star had already risen, was at once generally recognized. His "Gotz von Berlichingen" and his "Werther" had been enthusiastically received, but no more so than works of commonplace hunglers, and Goethe was assigned a very small niche in the temple of literature.—Heine.

TAXES ON TRANSPORTATION.

The increasing cost of government through the addition of new schemes of public regulation and their accompanying official machinery makes it necessary to find additional sources of taxes, one of which naturally will be the motor car.

The bulk of American motoring is done by pleasure cars and motor trucks. Only a small portion of motor vehicles is engaged in public service transportation of passengers but a rapidly increasing number is carrying freight. Of the vehicles known to the trade as pleasure cars, only a small proportion are used exclusively for pleasure.

It is now generally admitted that all motor cars, whether used for business or pleasure, should bear their proportionate share of the expense of highways maintained principally for their use and benefit, but there is wide divergence of opinion as to what constitutes just and equitable taxation of these vehicles.

The joint committee on taxation and retrenchment of the New York legislature reports it has been studying this problem and finds that the present charges on motor vehicles in this state are low as compared with those imposed by other Eastern states, and low as compared with the rates advocated by the motor vehicle industry itself. New York, says the committee, has the highest road debt and the lowest range of automobile fees in any Eastern state; therefore, it is fair to ask the users of the roads to pay a larger share than they now contribute toward road costs. State highway engineers believe that one-half of the cost of constructing roads is made necessary by the rapid development of motor truck traffic.

There should be no tax raising partiality between different forms of enterprise which are permitted to share equally the benefits of government, but the taxes should be equitable. While taxation should not penalize the motor vehicle industry because its development makes new and improved highways necessary, a tax based on the proportionate amount of wear and tear caused by the different classes of vehicles would seem most equitable. The increasing weight of trucks and their loads has become so serious that restrictions have been found necessary in many sections as a matter of public safety, in the same way that highway loads were limited in weight before the day of automobiles, especially for bridges. From the standpoint of highway wear, yield to owners, what the industry itself considers reasonable and in comparison with other cars, the present license fees for motor trucks are inadequate.

The legislative committee "recognizes that charges on motor vehicles should be reasonable and fair, and should not impose a check upon the development of an industry which means so much to the solution of our transportation problem." But does the committee recognize also that excessive regulation of railroads has imposed a check on railroad and its allied industrial development which has helped to create the transportation problem and continues to make a problem of present conditions?

Railroads operate over their own roadway, whereas the motor vehicle uses the public highway. While the legislature is seeking to solve the three problems of taxation, transportation and industrial development, will it overlook its opportunities to remove or at least to modify existing railroad regulations which stand in the way of normal activity through that channel? Taxation and regulation should be equitable.

BULLOCK'S EXTRADITION.

At Norlina, N. C., Matthew Bullock, a negro, shot and badly wounded a white man with whom he quarreled over ten cents' worth of apples. Bullock escaped, went north and secretly crossed the Canadian line, getting work at Hamilton, Ontario, where he remained nearly a year and where he is now under arrest. The governor of North Carolina is seeking through the State Department at Washington to secure Bullock's extradition from Canada, but it is reported from that country that the authorities will refuse to give him up on the ground that if he were taken back to North Carolina the chances are that he would would be lynched without trial. Thus a simple case of the called-for extradition of a criminal escaped across an international boundary is complicated and a delicate situation is created, although Bullock is in Canada illegally and could be deported on that ground alone.

American states have refused to give up negro fugitives for the same or similar reason, but it will be a very different matter if the government of a foreign country notify our State Department that it is unwilling to surrender an escaped criminal because it lacks confidence in American courts. It could not be otherwise regarded than as a serious affront, an international complication of no small gravity. It is difficult to believe that the Canadian government will venture to take such a stand. Meanwhile the incident is an impressive reminder to all states in which lynchings have occurred particularly the southern states where lynchings are the most frequent, of the damage thus done to the reputation of those states and of the nation of which they are a part.

3. Is it unkind or any harm to take a bird's egg from the nest if you intend it for a museum specimen?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. How far can a snake thrust its head forward in striking?

We cannot give any general rule. The Fox snake, Coluber vulpinus (called "fox" from the strong-scented secretion ejected from glands at the base of the tail, smelling something like a fox's den), doubles its head in an S-shaped twist and darts forward a third or more of its length. The black, a racer, can strike forward half its length.

2. Will the meadowlark take a perch on a building?

Probably not if the building was a human habitation or near other human buildings. Meadowlarks are shy birds and avoid man as neighbor. They can and do perch on fences, telegraph wires, etc., and might occasionally alight on a building that was in a solitary location.

2. Do squirrels live in a dormant state in winter, without food? We have some squirrel neighbors that have buried all the nuts we gave them, and we would like to know how they can get any food when the ground is frozen?

Red and gray squirrels do not hibernate nor lay up food in a den as the chipmunk does. But they probably do subsist on nuts tucked away either in the ground, or in cracks in bark of trees, being guided to their hit-or-miss stores by a sense of smell, as hunger prompts them to find food. These squirrels are not so in evidence during the cold weather, and possibly do some of their scouting for food by night.

Some people have such wonderfully good health nothing seems to hurt them. Others could so easily have fine color and more strength and vigor if they would help nature with Gude's Pepto-Mangan. It is a splendid iron tonic that physicians have prescribed for thirty years. It is not an experiment. It is not merely a temporary help, because it makes plenty of red blood and, as everybody knows, red blood is the only sure foundation of permanent health and strength. IT WAS 12 ABOVE ZERO EARLY TODAY

And Weather Man Promises Warmer Weather and Rain—Thermometers Registered 4 Degrees Warmer This Morning Than Yesterday.

The weather was four degrees warmer this morning at 7 o'clock than at the same hour on Tuesday. Thermometers on the Strand that registered 8 degrees above zero that morning registered 12 above this morning. The weather was damp this morning and the air penetrating.

The weather man is promising warmer weather and rain on Thursday. January has been a cold month, and the latter part of the month zero weather continued in force for a week.

The continued cold weather has made both skating and sleighing popular sports this winter. On the hills on the side streets the youngsters, and the old folks as well, are out sleigh riding. Where there is not much auto traffic the hills are in fine condition, but where the big trucks are using the hills constantly ruts are formed and the sleighing is spoiled.

On the Roudout creek off the old Mary Powell dock there is excellent skating where the snow has been cleared from the ice, and many are enjoying the sport.

The Skillypot is the only boat now running between Kingston and Albany, but is most used by vehicles, as the ice is being used by pedestrians in crossing from one side to the other. Ice bridges have been placed in position.

Science Now Shows Why Thousands of People Are Always Weak, Thin, and Run-Down No Matter How Much They Eat

What to Do to Help Put on Good Firm Flesh, Increase Weight, and Obtain a More Beautiful Form and Figure

Get a FREE $1.00 Package of Genuine Yeast Vitamine Tablets Today as Explained Below — Try Them for Ten Days and Watch the Results

Science has at last shown how we sometimes grow weak, thin, and emaciated on an abundance of food (lacking in vitamines) while with a much smaller amount of food, rich in vitamines, we may quickly take on good firm flesh, increase in weight, and make a remarkable gain in strength, energy and endurance, provided your blood contains sufficient quantity of oxygenated organic iron to enable your body to assimilate your food properly.

Without organic iron both food and vitamines are absolutely useless as your body cannot change lifeless inert food matter into living cells and tissue unless you have plenty of organic iron in your blood.

For centuries scientists tried in vain to make organic iron. At last the problem was solved so that you may now obtain pure organic iron like the iron in your blood from any druggist under the name of "Nuxated Iron".

It has been arranged to give to every purchaser of Nuxated Iron, who wishes to put on flesh or increase weight, a large regular $1.00 package of Genuine Yeast Vitamine Tablets absolutely free. Be sure to take only Nuxated Brand Yeast Vitamine Tablets with Nuxated Iron.

DO NOT BE MISLED BY IMITATIONS WHICH OFTEN CONTAIN DRUGS.

FREE $1.00 Coupon

This coupon, if used within five days, entitles you to one regular $1.00 package of Genuine Yeast Vitamine Tablets, absolutely free with each bottle of Nuxated Iron that you purchase. If your dealer does not have our Vitamine Tablets he can easily obtain them for you from any wholesale house. Cut out this coupon and present it to your dealer today.

ESTIMATE 800 CASES OF GRIP

In Kingston During January—There Were Five Cases of Pneumonia Reported, and Twelve Cases of Scarlet Fever.

While grip is not a reportable disease it is estimated that there were fully eight hundred cases in Kingston during January. While many of the cases were light there were still many who were confined to their home for several days. There are probably more cases of grip here now than at any time this winter.

That the majority of the grip cases were not severe is shown by the fact that during the past month but five cases of pneumonia were reported in Kingston.

The scarlet fever epidemic seems to be under control as during January but twelve cases were reported against the twenty-five cases in December.

No cases of epidemic "flu" have been reported in Kingston this year.

DE GRAFF, LONG MISSING, FOUND DEAD IN SHACK.

Recluse Had Bank Book Showing Deposits of $4,000.

The body of Charles DeGraff, 60, who disappeared from his home at Highland, N. Y., last September, and who had since been sought by the authorities at the behest of his relatives, was found Monday on the second floor of a deserted old house on the outskirts of Haverstraw. He had been frozen to death.

A party of children who were sleighing in the state road entered the house and made the discovery. The clothing, well worn and torn, led the children to believe that the man had been a tramp. A policeman and the coroner searched the man's pockets and found two bank books showing deposits of $4,000 to the credit of Charles DeGraff and $125 in cash.

The accounts were with the Highland National Bank and the Poughkeepsie Savings Bank. The coroner notified the Highland bank and August Gersh, a nephew, went to Haverstraw and established DeGraff's identity.

The Haverstraw authorities believe DeGraff had become confused while wandering and walked into the old house for shelter. He had been dead about three days, it was thought.

LECTURE WILL HELP SCHOOL CHILDREN

Part of the funds derived from the lecture on "Abraham Lincoln, the First American," by Bishop Quayle, to be given at the high school next Monday evening, will go toward giving help to needy school children. The members of the Kingston Chapter of the School Women's Club of the Hudson Valley, under whose auspices this lecture will be given, have been able to do much for several children from the funds derived from the Coligny Dawson lecture. One little tubercular child is receiving the best milk to be had, daily. Other children needing glasses have been helped out and dental bills for children needing dental services but whose parents could not quite meet the expense have been paid. The School Women of Kingston wish to continue this work, and are therefore gratified at the present sale of tickets for Bishop Quayle's lecture. In addition to the places at and persons of whom tickets might be purchased, the Sunday school children of the St. James, the Clinton Avenue and the Trinity Methodist Sunday schools are selling tickets.

CHANDLER SIX

The Car That Won an Instant Triumph

NEVER was the supremacy of an automobile so quickly recognized. New York acclaimed it at the show. Other cities are making the verdict nation-wide. It is the magnet of booth and salesroom, the theme of hundreds of congratulatory telegrams.

The new Chandler glorifies economy. It presents the ultimate of automobile construction at new standards of low cost. The motorist of moderate means may now drive a car a millionaire might be proud to own.

All that a car should have — rugged construction, surging power, lulling comfort, art of lines, details of smartness and richness of finish are here, because this is a NEW car, not a car slightly revised and adorned, but new in body and chassis, an achievement possible only to a company of ample resources and highly developed manufacturing skill.

This Chandler will be stylish and efficient three years from now, though priced on a basis of 1913. It expresses not only Chandler skill, but is an actual advance for the entire industry.

"DUTCH" DEAD.

William Freer's Dog Familiar All Over Town.

"Dutch" is dead and he will be missed. "Dutch" was the name of a white bull terrier owned by William Freer of 78 Green street, employed by Gotelli, the Wall street fruiterer. For over ten years the dog followed the horse and wagon which Mr. Freer drove about the city taking and delivering orders. "Dutch" jogging along the sidewalk, lying down when the rig stopped, but always with his ears open to hear the steps of the horse on the roadway, when he would jump up and follow along. "Dutch" was 12 years old, born in High Falls and was known in every section of the city. He had no bad habits, never chasing after horses, bicycles or autos and only barked when locked in the house as a watch dog. He was fond of being petted and would not growl when men, women or children would pat him on the head. Becoming feeble and unable to eat, Mr. Freer, his owner, took him to police headquarters on Tuesday and had "Dutch" gas-ecuted.

ITALIAN SEED LACKS HARDINESS

Clover Seed From Italy Appears First Class—Can Be Identified By Presence of Weed-Seeds.

Experts at the Geneva Experiment Station have issued a warning against the use in New York state of clover seed from Italy and southern Europe, as this seed has been found to lack in hardiness as compared with seed of American origin. Entire plantings have winter killed where Italian seed has been used even though the clover went into the winter in good condition.

It is said to be extremely difficult to identify Italian clover seed as it is distinguished from American seed only by the presence of certain characteristic weed seeds which may be lacking altogether. In all other respects the seed appears to be first class. Large quantities of this seed are known to have been imported into the United States through New York city and a considerable amount has probably been distributed throughout the state.

According to station officials, the only safeguard is to purchase American grown seed from reliable dealers who will guarantee the origin of the seed. Widespread distribution of Italian clover seed will mean a disastrous loss of the clover crop on many New York farms and far-seeing seedsmen will take every precaution to protect their customers against a loss of this kind. Wholesale dealers are urged to refuse to buy imported clover seed and local dealers are cautioned to demand a guarantee from the wholesaler that the seed they purchase is of American origin.

EMERALDS LATEST FAD FOR ENGAGEMENT RINGS

According to an article in "The Manufacturing Jeweler" the latest fad is the use of emeralds for engagement rings. Emeralds will be set in the most fashionable engagement rings in future, remarks the London Daily Express.

Princess Mary, by wearing an emerald engagement ring, will upset a tradition that has been faithfully followed by the majority of brides for generations, that of selecting diamonds as the engagement ring stone. This new fad, however, will not be greeted with as much enthusiasm by the newly engaged young man as might be expected, as the emerald of average quality is dearer than an average quality diamond. Fine emeralds are worth about $2,500 a carat, according to an expert, sometimes as much as $5,000 is paid. "A stone of four or six carats is a good size, so that 3,000 pounds or about $15,000 would be the price of a good emerald," according to an English expert.

Freeport Will Welcome Firemen.

The enterprising village of Freeport, L. I., will be the scene of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the State Firemen's convention in August, and great preparations have been made to make the golden jubilee the greatest event that has ever taken place in the village. Freeport is especially adapted for such an occasion. It is near New York city, the beaches and other points of interest, but the large committee is planning to make things so interesting in the town that none of the visiting firemen will want to go anywhere else during convention week.

Father's Time.

We've Mother's Day and Children's Day
And Dog-days too.
We've days to loaf and days to work,
And days for heroes, too.

And now a movement is on foot
(At least the papers say)
To honor the one who pays the bills—
And have a Father's Day.

The idea seems a little late.
But, just the same it's right:
Should father be consulted, though,
We'll bet he'll take a night.

A man thinks he knows, but a woman knows better.

Since mother and daughter have their hair bobbed, we suppose father is welcome to use all the hair pins in the house to fix the car.

Article XIII.

"Except as provided in Article IX, no ship designated in the present treaty to be scrapped, may be reconverted into a vessel of war."

Article XIV.

"No preparations shall be made in merchant ships in time of peace for the installation of warlike armaments for the purpose of converting such ships into vessels of war, other than the necessary stiffening of decks for the mounting of guns not exceeding six inch calibre."

Article XV.

This article provides that none of the powers may construct ships for an outside power greater than the limits herein prescribed.

Article XVI.

Provides for the notification to the other treaty powers when any power undertakes warship construction for an outside power.

Article XVII.

Article XVIII.

The powers pledge themselves not to give away or transfer to any other power warships which may become a part of the recipient's navy.

Article XIX.

This article provides for the status quo with regard to Pacific fortifications, within the limits already laid down and published. In the case of the United States, this applies specifically to Guam, the Philippines, and the Aleutian Islands. But Alaska, Hawaii and the Canal Zone are not included.

The status quo applies to "Hong Kong and the insular possessions which the British Empire now holds or may hereafter acquire in the Pacific Ocean east of the Meredian 110 east longitude, except (A) those adjacent to the coast of Canada, (B) the commonwealth of Australia, and its territories and (C) New Zealand."

In the case of Japan, it applies to the Kurile Islands, the Bonin Islands, the Oshima group, the Loochoo Islands, Formosa and the Pescadores and possessions that may hereafter be acquired.

"The maintenance of the status quo under the foregoing provisions implies that no new fortifications or naval bases shall be established in the territories and possession specified; that no measures shall be taken to increase the existing naval facilities for the repair and maintenance of naval forces, and that no increase shall be made in the coast defenses of the territories and possessions above specified. This restriction, however, does not preclude such repair and replacement of worn-out weapons and equipment as is customary in naval and military establishments in time of peace."

"In view of the possible technical and scientific developments, the United States, after consultation with the other contracting powers, shall arrange for a conference of all the contracting powers, which shall convene as soon as possible after the expiration of eight years from the coming into force of the present treaty to consider what changes, if any, in the treaty, may be necessary to meet such developments.

WILLIAM OF SWEDEN BAGS GIANT GORILLA

Not long ago a story came from Africa that Prince William of Sweden, who was there on a hunting expedition, had emulated Samson and killed a lion with his bare hands. The story at the time was taken with a considerable quantity of salt. Now comes evidence that the prince is a mighty nimrod. Here is a picture which the prince brought from the wilds of Central Africa showing him with a giant male gorilla of record size, which he brought down with a 350 magnum bullet on the slopes of Mount Mikeno Central Africa.

PARIS MAY BAR HORSES

Officials Seek Method of Disentangling Traffic Jams.

The horse soon will be but a memory on the principal thoroughfares of Paris if plans of "traffic reformers" are adopted. The object is to disentangle the traffic jams which make the pedestrian's existence uncertain.

The experts purpose to bar all horse-drawn vehicles from the chief traffic arteries during daylight hours. The traffic authorities would even banish pedestrians, putting them all underground on a moving sidewalk.

Those who take a gloomy view of the traffic situation see one optimistic aspect of it. They say it can't get any worse. Accidents are of almost hourly occurrence.

The red bands of concrete at crossings, constructed to give protection to the walkers, proved a failure. Only a heavy rain reveals their presence and then the drivers ignore them.

"Cruising" taxicabs add to the confusion and it is further suggested that this practice be prohibited.

STOVE EXPLODED, WOMAN BURNED

Miss Josephine Wallace of Abeel Street in Benedictine Hospital Burned as Result of Oil Stove Blowing Up—Fire Department Called Out.

Miss Josephine Wallace, an elderly woman, was laying on the couch in her sitting room on the third floor of the building at No. 457 Abeel street this morning when the oil stove near the couch suddenly blew up, badly burning her about the face and upper part of the body.

The fire caused an alarm to be turned in from Box No. 35, shortly after 10 o'clock this morning to which the fire department responded. The police department was notified, and the city ambulance was hurried to the scene and removed Miss Wallace to the Benedictine Hospital.

The prompt arrival of the firemen prevented the flames from spreading, and the damage to the furniture and interior of the room was slight.

Lowell Club.

The Lowell Club held this week's meeting at the home of Mrs. Wonderly. The afternoon's program opened with the roll call, "Exports and Imports of Japan." Mrs. Van Leuven then gave a reading from "Sunrise Stories," after which Mrs. Van Buren proceeded with the first half of her paper, "Japanese Industries—rice, tea." After telling interestingly and entertainingly of these two products, Mrs. Morris, in Japanese costume sang, to the delight of the club, a Japanese tea song, at the close of which a group of young girls in Japanese costume also served tea. Following the tea drinking ceremony, Mrs. Van Buren concluded her paper, telling of the Japanese industries of "Tobacco, Silk Manufacture, etc.," thus offering a unique feature to the program, and an appreciated one. Next week the club will meet with Mrs. Hasten at her home on Fair street, at which time the postponed decision on a subject for next year's study will be made.

Rinaldo-Franco.

A pretty wedding was celebrated Sunday, January 29 in St. Donato's Church, New Haven, Conn., when Miss Marie Franco became the bride of John Rinaldo of Glasco, N. Y. The bride wore a beautiful dress of white satin and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and wore a veil caught with orange blossoms. The bridesmaid was Miss Anna Rinaldo of Glasco, a sister of the groom. She wore a handsome dress of yellow satin trimmed with beads and carried a boquet of yellow roses. The best man was Joseph Della Morte of Catskill. After the ceremony the couple left on an early train for Glasco, where they had a large reception in Fireman's Hall. Many were present and a bountiful supper was served by Mrs. Lydia Van Wart and daughter Gertie. Music was furnished by Ferraro's orchestra and the dancing lasted until late. The bride received many beautiful presents, including silver, cut glass and linen. Mr. and Mrs. Rinaldo will reside on Main street, Glasco, where they have a nicely furnished home.

D. A. R. Lecture At 3:30 o'clock.

At the meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., tomorrow afternoon at the Chapter House, the illustrated lecture on "Old Revolutionary Camp Sites," given by Dr. W. F. Thomas of New York city, will begin at 3:30 o'clock, thus allowing a half hour for the routine business of the Chapter which will begin its meeting at 3 o'clock. All Chapter members are reminded that each one may bring a friend to participate in the enjoyment of the lecture.

Working of Pearl.

There are two kinds of shells used in the manufacture of small articles, the porcelaneous and the nacreous. The former are extremely hard and can be worked only with the apparatus used by the lapidary. The latter are more generally used and may be sawed, filed and turned with some facility. The pieces should be roughed out on a common grindstone. After turning they should be smoothed with pumice stone and water, and polished with rotten stone with sulphuric acid slightly diluted.

"Macaroni Verse."

This is a kind of humorous verse in which, with Latin as a base, words of other languages are introduced, using Latin inflections and constructions. The term was selected since it implies a mixture of languages—comparable with the mixture of ingredients found in a dish of macaroni. The name is sometimes applied to verses which are merely a mixture of Latin and the unadulterated vernacular of the writer. This type of verse has long been known in Italy.

Starting Slips.

More house plants are grown from slips than from seeds. To do this take a branch half ripe and cut a slit three inches long. Take off all the leaves except the upper two and root it well in wet sand several inches thick, putting one and one-half inches of the slip under the sand. Keep this thoroughly moist. When the roots begin to grow put your plant, with its sand, into a pot provided with other soil. Some slips, such as oleander and ivy, will root in water.

Illumination of Manuscripts.

The art of painting manuscripts with miniatures and ornaments is an art of the most remote antiquity. The Egyptian papyri containing portions of the Ritual or "Book of the Dead," are ornamented with drawings and colored pictures. The Persians, Hindus and Chinese have illuminated manuscripts with great beauty, some of which compete with those of the western nations in antiquity.

GRAPES AVAILABLE ALL YEAR

New Varieties Introduced by Department of Agriculture Have Good Keeping Qualities.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

New varieties of fruit differing from those usually found on the market are always of interest. New varieties of table grapes brought by the United States Department of Agriculture from Europe recently formed the basis of a midwinter demonstration of the keeping qualities of these valuable sorts, new to the American vineyard industry.

The varieties used in this test were introduced by the Department of Agriculture; grown in the vineyards under its direction near Fresno, Oakville and Colfax, Calif.; packed by its investigators; transported to its experimental cold-storage plant at the Arlington farm near Washington, and held until midwinter, long after the holiday season, with the result that at least six new varieties of potential commercial value have been demonstrated to possess keeping qualities beyond any hope which the investigators at the department entertained.

While repeated seasonal tests will be necessary fully to determine the value of these varieties under American conditions, the prospect of their proving superior in dessert and keeping quality to the varieties now generally grown appears excellent. In view of the profound changes which the viticultural industry is now undergoing, the lengthening of the consuming season for American-grown table grapes is highly desirable to both producers and consumers. The experiments under way indicate the strong probability that by growing varieties especially adapted to the purpose, and following packing, transportation and storage methods which have been worked out by the department, our markets can be supplied with American-grown grapes of high quality for at least two months later in the winter than is now the case.

AIR DRY SEED CORN QUICKLY

Importance Is Emphasized by Tests Made at the Nebraska Experiment Station.

The importance of having seed corn air dry as soon as possible after selection is emphasized by tests at the Nebraska experiment station where it was found that corn containing less than 25 per cent moisture when picked germinated 100 per cent, corn with 25 to 35 per cent moisture germinated 80 per cent, while 45 to 55 per cent moisture corn germinated but 33 per cent.

GRAPE AND CURRANT SHOOTS

Cut Each Section About Six Inches Long, With Two or More Buds—Pack Bundles in Cellar.

After leaves fall, select well-ripened shoots of this season's growth of grapes and currants, and cut them into sections about six inches long, each section having two or more buds. Cut each section square off just below a bud. Tie in bundles and pack in sand or sawdust in the cellar until planting time. Plant with one bud above and one below ground.

DUCKS FOR PRODUCING MEAT

Cheaply Constructed Houses Are Satisfactory for Fowls Both Winter and Summer.

Ducks on the farm should be kept especially for the meat they produce and not for market eggs. Their management does not involve much expense in that cheaply constructed quarters are sufficient for their housing both winter and summer, but, as a rule, they should not be permitted to mingle with the chickens on the farm.

ORANG-UTAN

"I've forgotten whether I was named after another Orang-Utan or after a Chimpanzee," said the Orang-Utan, "but anyway my name is Toto and I was named after one of those two creatures I have mentioned.

"I'm one of the creatures myself. That is—I am an Orang-Utan and mighty pleased I am to be one. I think I will sing a song about it."

So the Orang-Utan sang in his funny little voice,

An Orang-Utan am I,
And never do I sigh,
For I'm happy as the day is long,
This is all to my little song.

"Are you going to tell the story of your life, Toto?" asked another Orang-Utan in the zoo.

"I don't know," said Toto, "but I will tell something of the ways of the Orang-Utan family. It would be a pity if people didn't know about us and how friendly we are. It would be a great pity indeed.

"From the time an Orang-Utan is a little baby he is a dear, cunning little creature.

"When he is little he is a dear little creature, wanting to be friendly with everyone. If no one will be friendly with him he cries in a sad little voice. But an Orang-Utan baby makes friends. He is such a darling!

"Then he usually has such beautiful brown eyes, which look so pleadingly at everyone.

"We haven't feet shaped as the Chimpanzee has, and we don't dress up with so much ease as he does, because we cannot wear shoes very comfortably.

"Our toes are long and shoes don't fit us well. But we are much more friendly than he is, though he may have more brains than we have. We have brains though. Yes, plenty of brains and we're surely next to the Chimpanzee as far as brains are concerned. I'm quite sure of that.

"He is more nervous than we are. And we're more affectionate.

"Even though I am such a big creature I like to be held by my keeper. I suppose I will be heavier than he is one of these days. I'm not sure,

"I Am Proud."

but I know we become very heavy in time.

"But I never want to grow so big that I can't be loved by my keeper. For how I do adore to be loved by him, and how I do care to play with him and show him how much I love him!

"I play with some of his friends who come to the zoo too. And I've some good friends among them.

"My name of Orang means man, and my second name of Utan means jungle for often I am known in the free state as the jungle man. I am called Toto by my keeper just as a boy is called by a special name.

"A boy is called Jimmie or Sam or Johnny or some such name.

"Some of us like to do tricks and others of us like to find out all we can and learn all we can, but all of us are pretty bright and pretty good at tricks.

"We have long hair and when we get to be old we do weigh a lot! Especially we Mr. Orang-Utans. The ladies don't want to weigh so much. It doesn't seem quite ladylike to them.

"When I was free I used to live in a big nest in a tree which was strong but which used to blow a bit and move a bit so we could swing. We slept on beds of lovely branches and while we slept on our backs we always had our hands and feet about a branch so we could never fall or become hurt by any such accident.

"But, oh, while sometimes I think of the free days, I am happy here in the zoo. I am proud too, because my keeper loves me so.

"I would never go back on him. No, there isn't a mean or tricky or treacherous or unkind thing about me or my family. A mean orang-utan is something I have never seen and if there ever are any about I hope I won't see them as I'd not want to feel the family was disgraced.

"No, we are true and loyal, and we never change. Ah, there comes my good keeper friend now. I shall give him my finest kiss!"

Now He Knows.

Johnny—Would yuh please tell me, teacher, wot logic is?

Teacher—Logic, Johnny, is the art or science of reasoning; correct inference or ratiocination. In other words, that which may convince you that things are or are not what they are.

SALADS AND SALAD DRESSINGS

Bananas are always in the market and make a most acceptable salad if one is fond of the fruit.

Banana Salad.—Take one cupful of thick cream, three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one-half teaspoonful of paprika and a teaspoonful of powdered sugar. Whip the cream, add the lemon juice gradually. Place the bananas on lettuce and serve with the dressing poured over them.

Blackstone Dressing.—Take four tablespoonfuls each of mayonnaise and whipped cream, two tablespoonfuls each of chili sauce, tomato catsup and vinegar. Roquefort cheese may be added if desired.

Ginger Ale Salad.—Soften one fourth of a package of gelatin in one-fourth of a cupful of cold water and let it dissolve in a dish of hot water, add a grating of lemon rind and one and three-fourths cupfuls of ginger ale. Turn into small molds to chill and set. Serve very cold on heart leaves of lettuce with either French or mayonnaise dressing to a cup of which is added three tablespoonfuls or more of cocktail sauce.

Cheese Jelly Salad.—Mix one-half cupful of grated cheese with a cupful of whipped cream, season to taste with salt and pepper and add one tablespoonful of gelatin dissolved in a scant cupful of water. Mold in large or small molds. When the jelly begins to harden cover with grated cheese. Serve with French dressing to which grated cheese has been added. Tomatoes stuffed with cream cheese jelly and served on lettuce with French dressing are savory and quickly prepared.

Tomato Salad.—Cut fresh tomatoes peeled into eighths without separating the sections. Sprinkle with pearl onions and French dressing and chopped green pepper.

Cactus Responsible for Cochineal

Among his other virtues the cactus gives us the cochineal—the insect used for coloring. Leeuwenhoek in 1703 discovered that it was the female of an insect (Coccus Cacti) which never moved from a certain spot on the cactus, the male being the active member of the family but colorless and therefore useless. These insects are harvested three times during the dry season, being swept from the cacti into wide-mouthed bags with soft brushes and killed in boiling water or hot ovens, after which they are dried in the sun and put up in small packages for the market. In this thoroughly dried condition 70,000 insects are required to make a pound.

What Is Fastest Living Animal?

Man makes a poor show for the speed of our best sprinters is little more than 20 miles an hour. For some time it was thought that the whippet, which covers a furlong course in about 11 seconds, could claim the title; but his speed which works out at just over 40 miles an hour, is nowhere when compared with that of the antelope, who is capable of reaching a speed of over 60 miles an hour and of keeping it up for some time. What of the racehorse? His great size and his long stride give a false impression of his speed. The pace of the fastest winner on the race track is not much more than 30 miles an hour.

Movement of Flying-Fishes.

Some highly interesting observations on flying-fishes have been made by Dr. S. M. Hinkis in the Arabian sea. In still weather the length of a glide was about a meter, with considerable lateral instability; in a light wind this was increased to from 200 to 400 meters. A resemblance between the wing action of gliding vultures and the fin action of the fishes was marked. In both, the wing or fin is inclined upward, the outer part at a higher level than the base, in slow-speed flight, while both show a downward inclination in flight at high speed.—Scientific American.

PNEUMONIA KILLS L. J. O'REILLY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 1 — Lawrence J. O'Reilly commissioner of the board of water supply, and one of the best known men in New York political life died at his Brooklyn home today after a two-weeks' illness. Mr. O'Reilly was stricken with influenza which developed into pneumonia. Mr. O'Reilly was one of the founders of the independent non-partisan judiciary committee and supported the successful candidacy of Mayor Hylan. He was 52 years old.

Mr. O'Reilly had a number of acquaintances throughout Ulster county. Many of them were gained since he became a member of the board of water supply by appointment of Mayor Hylan, but many others dated back to the time when William R. Hearst was a candidate for state office. Mr. O'Reilly for many years was Mr. Hearst's secretary and in the absence of Mr. Hearst from New York city directed matters in which the editor was interested. He was one of the organizers of the Independence League.

Preparedness.

One of our eminent and doubtless reliable statisticians announces that there is only one chance in 29,980 that one's house will ever burn down and yet we suppose lots of girls who would be much more comfortable in outing flannel nightgowns are wearing their crepe de chine ones regularly, on the possibility that it might.—Ohio State Journal.

Dangerous Maladies.

There are more deaths from measles and whooping cough than from scarlet fever. Greater efforts in school hygiene would seem to be the only way in which this problem can be coped with successfully, combined with the education of parents in the necessity for the observation of quarantine and isolation procedures even for these simple diseases.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, Feb. 1. Louis Munson, who has spent a week with Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Devine and his daughter, Pauline Munson, on Broadway, returned to New York city Tuesday.

Esopus Council No. 12, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in their council room.

Everybody invited to attend the illustrated lecture entitled "Thy Kingdom Come," to be given in the Methodist Church Thursday evening under the auspices of the Sunday school board. A silver offering will be taken for the benefit of the school. Refreshments will be on sale after the lecture. Those who miss this lecture will miss a rare treat as the pictures are beautiful and the lecture is fine.

A card has been received from Miss Eva Wheeler from Manilla, Florida, stating the safe arrival of her and her father at the place mentioned. They have rented a bungalow there and are having a most wonderful time. Mr. Wheeler and his daughter are residents of Port Ewen.

Mrs. LeGrand T. Doyle is ill of grip at her home on Riverside avenue.

Clarence Proper is ill of grip at his home on Hamilton street.

Joe Trinkle has greatly improved his residence on Main street by adding new windows and a large porch, which adds greatly to the appearance of the house. H. H. Vincent, carpenter and builder, of Broadway, did the work.

At the regents examinations held in Port Ewen Public School No. 13, during the week of January 16, the following papers were accepted at a passing mark:

Reading—Josephine Ferraro, Carl Hotaling, Mary Polhemus, Ruth Shultis and Julius Soirsky.

The midweek prayer meeting will be held in the Reformed Church on Thursday evening, at 7:30. Subject, "Faithfulness and its Reward." Rev. 2:10. The choir will rehearse at 8:15.

Use for the Squeal.

In a packing house hearing recently an attorney who had cross-examined a member of the butchers' union on about every other subject, finally asked him what the packers did with the squeal. "They give it to the employees when they ask for a raise in wages," the man replied.

Ceylon Snails Grow Long.

In Ceylon are to be found snails which attain a length of from four to five inches.

The Everlasting Reminder.

It's not what a man tells us that annoys us; but it's his "I told you so," afterwards that gets our goat.

DAY OF GAYETY IN SICILY

At Festival Time the People Give Themselves Up to All Forms of Amusement.

Booths and barrows lined the streets selling fireworks and drinks, torrone made of new almonds and honey, knives and ribbons; and alternating with the merchandise and drinks were the gambling stands. There were a dozen roulette tables, silver horses whirling around over the numbered courses where you put your solde, and bright arrows with painted feathers that stopped whirling sooner or later and left a light tip resting on the lucky number. Crowds of people were putting their money down, mostly little boys, it seemed, writes Stark Young in the North American Review. The rockets were firing from every direction, with reports like bombs, unbelievably loud, to appease the Sicilian liking for mere noise. Now and then firecrackers in bunches were thrown from the roofs of the churches into the little stone streets, with a rattling and detonation like a bombardment. Beside the Duomo the band from Syracuse was playing airs from the operas. Meantime the deep blue of the early night had fallen over the walls and over the country dropping down toward the sea and rising on the other hand toward the Saracen castle above the town. A few pale stars were out and a slender moon, almost past, was shining. The whole piazza was sweet with the perfume of the jessamine that ran along the front of the house next the church, incredible sweetness in that soft, blue air. And everywhere were the voices, deep and bright.

SAFER THAN ANY STEEL VAULT

Bank of England Lowers Its Bullion Into Well at Close of Business Each Day.

In one sense the Bank of England is the safest bank in the world. Its unique protection is due to an artesian well in the bank. This well supplies the bank with its water independently of the rest of the city, is 90 feet deep and supplies 7,000 cubic feet of water an hour.

The bullion department, which holds the ingots of precious metal, is nightly submerged in several feet of water by the action of special machinery. Anyone attempting to rob the bank, then, must be an expert swimmer and diver. In the morning the water is pumped away and the ingots are readily accessible again.

However, the water still protects the other departments of the bank. Its supply is almost unlimited, the bank knows, and its protection is practically absolute when it is used. The bank has very delicate machinery arranged so that even the lifting of a coin from a pile will release a catch which, in turn, releases a supply of water.—Detroit News.

Pithy Paragraphs.

Whatever Broadway may have been in its day, it is a thoroughfare of aliens now, and it has no day, comparatively speaking, but only the night, when the Dr. Kennicotts of the inland towns walk with their more or less restless women folk, and try to believe they have struck oil in an emotional sense, and that they are having the time of their lives.—Louis Dodge.

Disraeli said that every one likes flattery, but with royalty you lay it on with a trowel; and nations are like royalty, only more so; they will swallow anything about themselves while wondering at the credulity of other nations.—A. Clutton-Brock.

That is just the way in this world; an enemy can partly ruin a man, but it takes a good natured injudicious friend to complete the thing and make it perfect.—Samuel L. Clemens.

Many things pass in handwriting, which print "shows up." Print is so impertinent—flinging open the door of a little room, where, perhaps, two lovers are communing, and saying to the public: "Have a look at them—these great people in love! You see they are just as silly as little people."—Ellen Terry.

Stamp Profiteering Slow.

The lowest Lilliputians in the whole hierarchy of international finance are probably the stamp peddlers. There is hardly a person who was born on the other side who is not dabbling in some angle of foreign exchange, but the stamp men seem willing to operate on the most fractional margin of profit. Up and down the market streets of the Italian sections they go every Saturday night, displaying stamps that were made in Italy. They offer them to shoppers, generally following a boy who sells writing paper. No doubt they are to encourage early replies to letters in which they are inclosed. Occasionally a transaction involving a half-sheet or so of stamps may be seen, so that small amounts of money may also be sent in this way to friends on the other side.—New York Sun.

Hard Blow Coming.

"How about a shock absorber?" asked the man who was buying a cheap car.

"We can put one on."

"No," said the purchaser. "But I'd like to have one sent to my wife in advance—she expects a limousine."

Egomania.

"Gabsen seems to have a good opinion of himself."

"It's lucky he doesn't write biographies of distinguished people."

"Why so?"

"He'd use his own photograph as a frontispiece."

What a Boy Thinks of You.

A boy's sheepishness is by no means a sign of over-mastering reverence; and, while you are making encouraging advances to him under the idea that he is overwhelmed by a sense of your age and wisdom, ten to one he is thinking you extremely queer. The only consolation I can suggest to you is that the Greek boys thought the same of Aristotle. It is only when you have mastered a restive horse, or thrashed a drayman, or have got a gun in your hand, that these shy juniors feel you to be a truly admirable and enviable character.—Exchange.

Song Came From His Heart.

George Matheson, a young minister of promise, who wrote "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go," was engaged to be married, and unexpectedly he went totally blind. He told his sweetheart that he thought he ought not to press his claim on her promise, and gave her permission to cancel it if she wished. She did, and it was then that Matheson wrote: "O love that will not let me go, I cast my weary soul on Thee."

WAR GAS BAN ADOPTED, TOO

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 1.—A treaty between the five great powers of the Washington conference, abolishing the use of poison gas in warfare and virtually making it impossible for a submarine to attack and sink a merchant ship, was presented and adopted today in open session.

The treaty is expected to form a new chapter in international law as other nations would be invited to adhere to the pledges which the five great powers make in it.

Today's agreement on "humanizing warfare" was the direct outgrowth of the Root resolutions, agreed to early in the conference.

The treaty was comparatively short, consisting of seven sections.

Lad Got Bargain.

Standing in front of a bake shop, a crowd was watching an automatic machine turning out doughnuts. A sign announced that the price of the doughnuts was 30 cents a dozen. In the front row of the crowd was a small negro newsboy. As he pressed his nose against the window his attention seemed divided between the sign and the coins he counted over in his hand. Thirty cents a dozen would be more than two cents apiece, and less than three cents. Finally he entered the shop and motioned to the girl filling bags at the hopper that he wanted one doughnut. She handed it to him and took the proffered coins. Then, noticing that he had given her three cents, she called him back and returned one of the pennies. A look of astonishment spread over the urchin's face. Then, realizing he had made a bargain, he walked across the street, munching his doughnut.

Commercial Candor.

Refreshing reading was provided by the advertisement of a new photo play, recently, to the effect that "This picture did not cost a million dollars, nor anything like a quarter of a million, to produce, but still we believe it to be a good film." Candor like this cannot but make a good impression on the reader to whom claims of extravagant sums spent in the movie studios, with results that many persons feel justified in characterizing as worthless, have come to mean little. Somewhat unfair to themselves, patrons found, were the managers of a rummage sale who placed over one of their counters the following signs:

LUNCHEON AND FOOD.

Sinners Are Never Bores.

"'I never knew a woman who regretted marrying a rake,' said Mrs. Thirlston. 'I have known women who married good, straight men, and lived with them for life quite successfully—but in their hearts they knew the loss of adventure, though they dared not own to it. It's the sinners who never bore'" 'I believe all actors are married as soon as they are born. I never met one who was a bachelor. Not even at a week-end.' 'Oh, well, they must say something in self-defense, mustn't they.' 'I shall be very fond of him,' said Mary, composedly. 'You will have to, to make your married life endurable.' 'I think the one thing a woman never forgives is having nothing to forgive,' returned Mary."—From "Wandering Fires," by Dolf Wyllarde.

Eliminate the Crude.

There are not many houses that do not shelter at least one hideous piece of furniture. This may be a chair with intricate legs or with absurdly carved arms, on which a lion growls or an eagle threatens, or it may be an old-fashioned sideboard with all sorts of meaningless gimcrack ornaments. Even good lines in furniture cannot make golden oak beautiful, and yet much of this is still found in homes in which an effort to achieve beauty is made. Often it is by clearing away the most strikingly ugly pieces that harmony is achieved. The idea that only by adding to the objects in the house can one add to the beauty of the interior is far from correct.

Goethe's Merit.

Goethe's merit lies in the perfect finish of all his creations; there are no strong scenes to counterbalance the weak, no elaboration of some parts of the picture to make up for the sketchiness of others, no botching, no padding, no dwelling on details. Each character in his romances and dramas is treated, wherever it appears, as though it were the chief character. This is Homer's manner, this is Shakespeare's. In the works of all great poets there are, properly speaking, no secondary characters; each person of the drama is in his place the leading character.—Heine.

Arbuckle Prosecution Rests.

Tulip Is Popular.

The tulip tree, also called tulip poplar and yellow poplar, has clear yellow fall foliage, but as the leaves drop more quickly after turning than some of the other trees, it does not always make as much show in the landscape as some of the other trees. It is worthy of planting for its yellow color in autumn. It is one of our largest trees, oval-headed and of rapid growth. It is native from Pennsylvania and southern Ohio and Indiana southward. —American Forestry Magazine.

Longevity of Women.

Although on the average women live longer than men, a woman of twenty-five has fewer chances of living to fifty than a man of the same age. On the other hand, if a man and woman have both reached the age of fifty, the chances are that the woman will outlive the man, a fact accounted for by the difference in temperament.

LOCALS OUTCLASS UTICA QUINTET

In First Game of Half Season Race; Harvey Plays a Spectacular Game; Borgeman Makes Sixteen Points.

Morgenweck's clan started the second half race, Tuesday evening at the Armory by defeating the Utica team by a tally of 44 to 17. Seven local players were in the game during the evening and each had one field goal or more to his credit. Twenty was the amount caged from the floor by Kingston. Four fouls were also chalked up for the local combination.

The Utes made five goals and seven fouls throughout the struggle. Sturgis was the big point getter for the up staters, shooting two fields and a foul. Schmeelk and Leary followed with four points each.

From the outset the local quintet outclassed the Utica team and at no time during the contest were they in danger. The first half ended with Kingston sporting a thirteen point lead. Score 20 to 7.

Borgeman made sixteen points throughout the contest and Clinton was next with eight. Nick Harvey displayed some wonderful floor work and passing. Lehr also made a good showing tapping the ball at almost every toss up. Artus played his usual good game. M. Husta and C. Husta replaced Borgeman and Clinton during the last ten minutes of play and each scored a field goal. The all around team work of the local combination proved too fast for the up-staters and it looks as if they will be in the running for the pennant.

Davey was the referee and his decisions met with the approval of the twelve hundred fans witnessing the game. The usual good dancing followed the game, music supplied by Balfe's Orchestra.

The score:

MUCH EXCITEMENT IN SKI JUMPING

There is perhaps more excitement to the square inch in ski jumping than in any other winter sport. The skiing season is now in full swing in the Northland and every year more and more Americans are taking up the thrilling Norwegian sport. Ski tournaments are of frequent occurrence and some tremendous jumps have been recorded. The jumper shown in the photo is taking off for a leap of 70 feet.

NOT AFRAID OF ANTELOPE

Years ago Lou Barbour, now traveling secretary of the White Sox, was with the Lincoln club of the Western league. When the season started the Lincoln players came out dolled up in bright new uniforms with the head of an antelope—the nickname of the club—sewed on their chests.

Barbour approached Owner Jones. "Don't you think we'd better have those things ripped off?" he asked.

"Why?" said Jones, amazed. "I thought they looked swell."

"They do; but who's afraid of an antelope?"

prove it, and he is seldom out of the game, for he has made himself so expert in touching the bag that he avoids accidents that fall to the lot of others.

He has the art of touching first base for a putout down so fine that he simply clicks the sack with his heel or toe the same fraction of a second the ball hits his glove and is then off about his business. Watch him next summer!
